SHREK DIRECTOR'S NOTES

One of the things that make us so proud of our Tiger Drama Department is how our artists have found a home in the theatre with a common goal: to make something truly beautiful with a lasting impact on our cast, crew, families, and audience members. The theatre is a remarkable place. It can transport us to different worlds where, just for a little while, we don't have to think about the problems that surround us. That is what I hope SHREK does for you. In the theatre – magic is possible, happy endings come true, and everyone can be celebrated for letting their freak flags fly. Theatre opens its arms to welcome those who feel they have no other place to go, or who feel forgotten, like Shrek and Donkey. Theatre transcends language barriers, different backgrounds, and brings people together. Not just the cast of characters, or crew and musicians; but all people. People who love music, storytelling, families, friends, and even strangers. That is why theatre is so important and why I feel so privileged to get to practice this art with the Lewis and Clark community. So welcome to SHREK. Welcome to our big, bright, beautiful world. Know that here at Lewis and Clark, you matter and you belong!

"We are different and united, you are us and we are you! This is our story!"

Greg Pschirrer
